WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—An uncertain fate awaited the drastic House anti-strike bill in the Senate today, with a strong group notifying it will seek to remove many of the measure's teeth, but admitting that ultimate passage of far-reaching labor legislation is now inevitable.

Veteran leaders confessed surprise at the overwhelming 252 to 136 vote by which the lower chamber passed the bill sponsored by Rep. Smith (D) Va., which would greatly curb strikes and picketing, and take away from labor many of its hard-won privileges.

Essential points of the measure, which applies to all defense industries, are:

No strike may be called except on 30 days notice to the secretary of labor, and then only after a secret ballot of all employees under auspices of the conciliation service.

No strikes may be called to enforce demands for a closed shop or because of jurisdictional disputes between unions.

Present open or closed shop relations are frozen for the duration of the emergency.

Violence or threats on the picket line.

CAIRO, Dec. 4.—British advisers said today that a solid wall of Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham's troops now is hemming in the Germans along a shrinking coastal strip of Libya 80 miles long and 35 miles wide.

Latest reports from the war zone said the Nazis have been bottled up in this area stretching from Bardia to Tobruk as a result of a drastic change in British tactics designed to end the inconclusive spread-out battles of the past two weeks.

The wall of British forces, both infantry and armored units, now is standing east and south of the German line with the Tobruk garrison still bulging out from the north-east.

Avenue Of Escape Open
It was admitted that an avenue of escape for the Germans still is open in the Tobruk area, but it was said that it was not a serious threat.

Diplomatic Advices Indicate Division Of Opinion In Japan

By KINGSBURY SMITH

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Diplomatic advices received in Washington today led to the belief there is considerable political disunity in Tokyo over the question of whether the Nippon empire should defy the United States at this time.

The advices indicate that conservative elements in Tokyo, especially business interests, are striving to restrain the extremists in the government from precipitating Japan into a major clash in the Pacific with the United States and other members of the ABCD united front.

May Be Delay Cause
Strength of this movement is not definitely known, but it is thought in Washington that it may be responsible for the Japanese government's delay in replying to Secretary of State Hull's note setting forth the American terms for an understanding.

Awaiting a reply to this nation's proposals, President Roosevelt summoned congressional leaders and experts on foreign policy for a closed White House conference. Called to the meeting were Vice-President Wallace, Sen. George (D)

Special Session Appears Likely

Re-Appportionment Controversy Is Nearing Deadline

HARRISBURG, Dec. 4.—A special session of the legislature to enact a reapportionment law appeared likely today as legislators spoke confidently of reaching an agreement next week.

Gov. Arthur H. James indicated he might convene a special session even if the members of the 10-member bi-partisan legislative committee failed to reach an agreement.

Although the governor said his action would depend upon developments, it represented a change in his determination not to call the general assembly together until the leaders had agreed upon a plan for reducing Pennsylvania's congressional delegation from 34 to 33 in accordance with the 1940 census.

There was no truth, he added, to a rumor that he had already decided to reconvene the legislature in the event of a final deadlock in order to prevent an at-large election. "I have always been hopeful," he declared, "that a group of reasonable men could find a solution to the problem."

Pittsburgh Is "Black Out"

City Enveloped In One Of Heaviest Fogs On Record
This Morning

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 4.—Nature "black out" Pittsburgh and western Pennsylvania today with one of the heaviest fogs on record in this metropolitan district.

Highway and air traffic were virtually smothered by the thickness of the vapor, and frequent bulletins from the Pittsburgh Motor Club advised radio listeners on the "visibility zero" atmosphere.

The motor club urged travelers stay off the streets and highways unless absolutely imperative.

In the city, traffic moved at a snail's pace, and numerous dented fenders were reported.

In the nearby mill communities, where the black smoke from the steel mills added to the density of the fog, the traffic situation was almost hopeless.

Regularly scheduled airline flights out of the Allegheny county airport were cancelled.

In the Oakland section of the city, firemen answered three false alarms at a speed of only five miles per hour.

The Pittsburgh Railways Company reported most of its street cars and buses were being delayed by the slow-moving traffic jams and the pea-soup fog.

House Of Commons Approves Gigantic Conscription Bill

(International News Service)
LONDON, Dec. 4.—The House of Commons today passed Prime Minister Winston Churchill's gigantic conscription bill by the overwhelming vote of 326 to 10.

Previous to the vote, the government won a double victory as the labor party voted to support the prime minister's motion for mobilization of man and woman-power, and the house defeated a labor amendment to the bill providing for nationalization of vital industries.

The labor party vote was 52-25 and the margin in the house was 336 to 40.

Ernest Bevin, minister of labor in the Churchill cabinet, strongly defended the government's position in the house while Major Clement R. Attlee, lord privy seal and titular head of the labor party, did the same at the separate labor party meeting.

"I came into this government with my eyes open," Bevin said. "I knew what I would have to face. I am not going to shrink it."

"Even as a laborite I have nothing to apologize for, even though we have to carry this measure of compulsion at the present moment."

"I am conscious in my own heart that the steps we are taking are an example for the world."

(International News Service)

HELSINKI, Dec. 4.—Occupation of the powerful base on Hango Peninsula commanding the northern side of the entrance to the Gulf of Finland was announced by the Finnish high command today.

A communique said Hango—the last Russian stronghold in Finland—had been captured and that Finnish troops were mopping up the heavily mined sections of the Peninsula adjacent to the base.

It was stated the Soviets took advantage of three misty days to evacuate their Hango garrison of approximately 30,000 men, but authorities claimed the Soviet transport vessel Molotov and other ships loaded with the Russian troops ran into mines at sea.

Finnish troops found a Soviet letter left behind at the base. It threatened:

"We will come back. Revenge is sweet."

According to eye-witness dispatches, the Finnish occupation of Hango began by sea Tuesday morning, when forces landed from Finnish patrol boats occupied the Port of Hango on an islet just west of the Peninsula.

First Broadcast In 24 Hours After British Fleet Reaches Singapore

BRITISH BELIEVE JAPS ON DEFENSIVE

(International News Service)
SINGAPORE, Dec. 4.—A Tokyo radio broadcast picked up in Singapore said today that movements of the British navy in Far Eastern waters "must be watched closely."
The broadcast broke 24 hours of silence on the part of Japanese broadcasters relative to the arrival of British naval units at Singapore, including the giant battleship Prince of Wales.
While minimizing the effectiveness of the "slight" naval forces which Britain can spare from the Mediterranean, the radio broadcast must keep a close watch on developments "especially since Singapore probably will be used jointly by Britain and the United States."
"This is another reason that the Japanese nation should strengthen its iron will to cope with the situation," the broadcaster added.
In Singapore, meanwhile, informed quarters expressed the view Japan is not likely to risk an invasion of Thailand now that Britain has a powerful fleet in the Far East.
These British quarters said they saw indications that Japan is "going on the defensive."

had named Miss Christine Giannotti, drum major of the high school band, as their honorary captain, and introduced her to the audience. Miss Giannotti expressed her appreciation of the honor and wished the boys enrolled in the unit the best of luck in their efforts.
Dr. John J. McIlvaine, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, World War aviator, whose plane crashed on a photographic mission, and who was taken prisoner by the Germans, told of his flying experience, and showed the boys a number of pictures taken during his service. These served to show the tremendous advancement which has been made in flying since 1918, the year planes of his day looking quite flimsy compared to the sleek fighters and huge bombers of today.

Lieut. A. W. Farmer and Lieut. E. J. Permar of the Pittsburgh recruiting office were introduced. Lieut. Farmer explaining the steps necessary to secure admission to the Flying Cadet Corps, leading up to a commission. Young men receive $75 per month and $1 per day meal allowance while in training, and on graduation are commissioned as second lieutenants, with a salary of $245 per month.

In order to qualify, men must be between the ages of 20 and 27 years, be high school graduates, be able to pass the physical examinations and general classification tests, physics and mechanical aptitude.

If they fail in part of their examination, they can re-apply and take another test four months later, being only required to make up the subjects they failed in.

It was stated that out of 122 applicants to date, only 16 have passed the rigid physical examination, and are now pursuing studies for admission to the Flying Cadet Corps.

They are: Norman L. Douglass, Paul Goscowski, Francis E. Gregor, Richard W. Gregor, Jack E. Hanna, Brownie J. Pierog, Archie C. Ridley, Jack R. Sanford, Ralph Papa, John J. Zakel, W. Walter Nelson, James Dufford, Raymond E. Blowers, Earl Braunerger, Alfonso Koschusko and George V. Miller, all of whom except the last four were present at the dinner.

Following the dinner, and discussion, U. S. army sound films were shown, two of them depicting the life of the flying cadets and the other being the latest tank corps picture.

Others who are interested in joining the unit, and who were guests at the program last evening, included: Bill Evans, Stanley Gorgas, Thomas Jones, Emmett Latimer, Wylie Shira, David Long, Dan Druschel, John Wilk, Steve Argilan, Francis Carlin and Wesley Young.
Miss Edith Bodendorfer, secretary of the unit, was introduced as were W. J. Chapman, Clara B. Book and Harry Harris members of the lodge's defense committee.

(International News Service)
JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 4.—Rollie Hemsley, veteran Cleveland Indian catcher, was purchased today in a straight cash transaction by the Cincinnati Reds.

Having played once before for the Reds, the 34-year-old backstop returns to his previous club after being waived out of the American league. He hit .240 last season in slightly fewer than 100 games and has a lifetime batting average of close to .270.

Sale of Hemsley was the first transaction made under the new management of Lou Boudreau, who reportedly had several more deals on the fire for completion here or at the major league meetings next week.

DIPLOMATIC ADVICES INDICATE DIVISION OF OPINION IN JAPAN

Gai, ranking member of the foreign affairs committee, Sen. Hill (D) Ala., senate majority whip, Speaker Rayburn, house majority leader McCormack and Chairman Bloom (D) N. Y., of the house foreign affairs committee.

Conference Called

The conference was called after Hull charged Japan with attempting to establish military dictatorship in the Far East and indicated that the gap between America and Japan appears unbridgeable.

Official Washington is inclined to doubt that the conservative elements in Tokyo have enough influence at the present time to bring about a sufficient reversal in Japan's foreign policy to enable the government to accept the American terms.

However, it is hoped, though the hope is a slim one, that the more responsible elements in Japan may be able to restrain the militarists from invading Thailand in the immediate future—a move which American officials now appear convinced will lead to a major war in the Pacific.

Japan Faces Big Task

It is felt in the capital that these conservative elements realize the strength of the ABCD united front is now such as to make it impossible for Japan, already weary from a four-year war in China, to stand a major conflict with the western powers in the Pacific.

Furthermore, it is believed Hull's argument that Japan should "accept prosperity without fighting" has made some impression on the business interests in the Nippon Empire.

Hull, in his conversations with the Nippon envoys here, has laid great stress on the fact Japan, as a leading shipping and manufacturing center in the Pacific, could reap a rich harvest out of the present world situation by selling its products, including defense materials, to the British Empire and the nations of the western hemisphere, providing it abandoned its policy of aggressive expansion and remained neutral.

Official Washington believes the next few days will tell whether the conservative elements are making any headway in Tokyo, or whether the militarists will carry the Nippon Empire along the road to what Hull is convinced will be national suicide.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph.D.

PARENT MUST SELF-BEFORE CHILD

We parents have few problems with our children which we have not, in some way, caused. Solution of these problems, therefore, requires us to change ourselves and our ways of dealing with the child. This means we must exercise self-discipline.

In testimony of this, a mother writes:

"Dear Dr. Myers—We want to thank you for your reply to our letter and your helpful advice. Although several months have elapsed, you may still have on file your letter advising us about our 9-year-old daughter, her table manners and slowness.

We took your advice to heart and have tried to discipline ourselves to be more tolerant and understanding, to express more praise and less criticism.

A Regular Schedule

"I have put her on a schedule which lists her duties and the time they are to be done, allowing for playtime periods when she will not be bothered. She is orderly by nature and likes to have her time regulated in this way. I think it not only helps her to get things done now, but will be of use to her in the future for planning things. I try not to scold if she slips up on a few things.

"Her duties are to make her bed, keep her room in order and toys and clothes put away when not in use, dust her room twice a week and help me with the dishes at night.

"We are getting along with much less friction at meal times. We are trying to overlook little things and, as she is developing and changing all the time, some trifles that annoy seem to disappear suddenly.

Child Helpful

"She cooperates very well and during vacation, she did many helpful things that weren't required. While, as you advise, we do not pay her for regular duties, we do help her to earn extra money by doing such things as she can, such as shining shoes, watching little brother while I have other duties to attend to. She is trying hard to save her money for what she considers the ultimate goal—a bike. . . . She does very well at school and we have praised her successes."

It is encouraging to read of this mother's progress with her daughter. A selected list of books to aid parents in understanding their children and live happily with them may be had by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. My son wants to take up mechanical engineering but is very poor in high school mathematics and science. He is handy with all sorts of tools.

A. Encourage him to enter a trade school of some sort where he can learn to be a good mechanic without much mathematics. Science. Let him know how impossible it is even to enter a good engineering school unless he excels in mathematics and such sciences as physics and chemistry.

The World and the Mud Puddles

SPIES NOT NEEDED

There is much talk about spies, spies in navy yards, spies in aircraft factories and spies in this or that Washington Bureau of the government and nothing, particularly, is done about it.

Why should there be? The newspapers and magazines of this country are full of pictures showing what a wonderful airplane this or that factory is turning out, with all of the details explained and illustrated; pictures and descriptions of the latest productions of the shipyards, particularly, showing the late fast torpedo boats and with every launching, the description of the boat that is being launched.

To add to all of this, from the President down, the officials of the United States government are editing columns in the newspapers telling all about government plans for defense. The Axis Powers do not need to employ any spies any more than to check up on all the government official broadcasting in the newspapers and magazines of the nation.

It is very interesting to read about the great Douglas bomber that cost the government more than three million dollars and could crash just as easily as a fifteen hundred dollar single seater could. The airplane industry has not yet been able to manufacture a plane with the factor of safety of one and, unfortunately, it cannot park on a cloud and there are no service stations in the air.

Just recently the newspapers reported that German submarines had been seen off the coast of Newfoundland. Now it is certain that no newspaper reporter saw them, but they were seen at all. If the story was true, it had to emanate from the Navy Department and why should the world be told at all those things which should be held in strict secrecy by government officials, whether Army, Navy, or Executive?

Are we such a boastful people that we can tell the world all the details of all the machinery which we are setting up for national defense? Can we afford to tell the world all we know about the operation of Nazi submarines? The boastful American, of course, loves to read about our marvelous defense program. Just as no doubt, the German living in Germany love the boastfulness of the Fuehrer.

Say one thing for high-up clergymen. When you see a picture of one in a news story, he isn't wearing a gold chain, is he?

Speaking of our lease-lend expenditures, do you remember the old fashioned European statesman who called Uncle Sam a Shylock?

One commentator predicts that the features of John L. Lewis will never be carved in the stone on the side of a mountain.

DITTO

A firm kept a book in which each employee was required to write his name every morning, together with the time of his arrival and any excuse he might have for being late. The first man always gave as his excuse: "Train late," and the others followed suit by writing "Ditto."

One morning when the usual number of "dittoes" had followed the first man's alleged excuse, it was seen that the latter had written: "We had twins."

Taking Uninvited Guest To Party
Question: After I had accepted an invitation to a party and buffet supper, an old friend of mine from out of town appeared. I took him along to the party with me, and after our arrival I discovered that it was a bridge party—that the hostess had invited an equal number of men and women. Of course, everything was thrown out of whack. I have since been told that I committed a breach of etiquette. Tell me what I should have done in this situation—Jane.

Answer: Had your nouseguest been a man, no doubt, would have been forgiven. An extra man except at bridge parties where an extra guest of any type is undesirable—delights all present, while an extra woman is looked upon as a burden. Sad as this is, it is a true estimate of the social worth of unattached women. When next you are confronted with such a difficult situation, telephone your hostess and explain your predicament, adding of course: "I must cancel my acceptance, since I must not leave my guest." The hostess will, thereupon either accept your regret or urge you to bring along your guest.

Question: How may I gracefully serve a dinner without a maid?—Hostess.

Answer: As many items as possible should be on the table before the guests are seated so that the hostess may be subjected to the minimum "ups and downs." The table should be completely set in the conventional manner. At each place should be all of the silver required for the meal. Water goblets should be filled, bread and butter should be on the individual plates and the salad should be at each guest's place. All these should be on the table and the dessert plates, coffee service and fingerbowl placed on the serving table before dinner is announced. A three-course meal will save the hostess many steps to and fro from the kitchen. As a first course, serve tomato juice or fruit cocktails. Hot soup adds complications to the servantless dinner, for it must be served after guests are seated. When the fruit course is finished, remove the dishes, and then serve your main course. The hostess may have, for convenience, by her chair a set of shelves, the top row to be used for fresh plates and the lower for used plates. Carving may be done in the kitchen or at the table as preferred. Many hostesses, unassisted by a servant, serve platters, arranging them in the kitchen.

Capital Stew Now At Boiling Point
Lease-Lend Workers Become Numerous
Fall Over One Another In Confusion

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist
WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—WASHINGTON'S defense and lease-lending chiefs and their aides have become so numerous and so supernaturally active that they're falling all over one another. Some of their collisions are accidental. Some are regular clashes and dined mean ones, between agencies that are determined to out-defend and out-lease all rivals and opposing agencies that don't propose to be out-defended and out-leased by anybody.

The fever's reached such a temperature that it's breaking out into an eruption of both art and literature.

The other day Jim North, veteran cartoonist, just now serving as a pleader in the capital for out-of-town industrial concerns in quest of priority orders for raw materials they need to keep running, made me a present of a sketch he'd evolved, illustrative of his thesis, "Unity?—Unity?—All is disunity."

Today I have at hand a 248-page handsomely bound book of Carlisle Barger, political worker, lecturer and magazine writer, "Confusion on the Potomac" is his volume's title.

A paragraphic fore-word on the cover gives an idea of the situation Carlisle discusses:

"The Alarming Chaos and Feuds of the scenes in Washington, of New Dealers and Dollar-a-Year men embroiled in jealousies, discords, bickerings, fights for power and prestige that are hamstringing America's all-out program."

Offices Far and Wide

The emergency organization's properly DIS-organization's creation has been so rapid that it's been impossible to keep track of it. You can't even find the various offices in the general hodge-podge. They're scattered all over the District of Columbia and out into Maryland.

WASHINGTON—Kichisaburo Nomura, Japanese ambassador to the United States, warns that war will not settle the issue at stake in the Pacific.

"If we cannot settle the issues at stake by diplomacy, we should not try to settle them by war. War will not settle them."

NORFOLK, Va.—Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ralph A. Bard points out that the United States already is in the war.

"It is true that we are not at war on a battlefield, but we have cast our lot."

BALTIMORE — Archbishop Michael J. Curley, primate of the Catholic dioceses of Baltimore and Washington, warns that Hitler and Stalin may do an about-face.

"I would not be surprised to see Stalin and Hitler get together again in spite of what their nations, Germany and Russia, may have done to one another during the past 23 weeks."

MONTICELLO, N. Y.—Dr. Ewing R. Van Kleek, assistant state commissioner of education of New York state, tells high school students not to leave school for temporary high wages in defense industries.

"Hundreds, if not thousands of young people are quitting school to take jobs. They are throwing away their individual, never-to-be-repeated chance for a high school education."

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THESE THINGS I remember in moments of dream and of drowse by fire.

The bicycle known as a "safety"—the first with a pneumatic tire!

The age that came earward before me—I witnessed the last of them all—Who pedaled those monstrous devices which seemed to be twenty feet tall.

The one with the large wheel and little, my father could manage it well.

But 'twas almost a fatal disaster when out of the saddle he fell. That mammoth went out with the eighties—twas into the nineties I came.

When some genius fashioned the "safety" by lowering the front wheel and frame.

We talked then of gear, wheel and sprocket, the ratio by number was known;

And there was a blue devil racer which every boy wanted to own.

We sprawled over handle bars curving, believing that way added power.

But the cops gave us tickets for speeding if we went over six miles an hour.

On Sundays we toured in the country, did twenty miles over the clay.

And twenty miles back to the city, then happily called it a day!

There were hints of a motor car coming but few of us thought it could be.

How a carriage could move without horse we hadn't the vision to see.

Now this generation is flying—for speed is our national craze—

And I smile as I drowse at the fire-side and think of our bicycle days.

The Washington Writers

Washington, Dec. 4

RECENTLY two newspapers—the Jacksonville Times Union and the Waterloo (Iowa) Courier—denounced the selling by public officials of magazine articles based on information available only to themselves. This was an exceptionally timely criticism. Certainly, unless some way is found to call a halt, this business will become epidemic. As things are, it is a well-developed disease.

FOR example, in the current issue of a single magazine there are three separate articles by as many public officials. One is by Mr. Harry Hopkins, special representative of the President abroad and his bosom friend at home. A second is by the "dynamic Donald Nelson," as the publicity agents call the executive secretary of the SPAB. The third is by our former Ambassador to Russia and Belgium, Mr. Joe Davies, recently attached to the State Department and likely at any moment to be further honored.

SCATTERED around in other weekly and monthly publications were other articles by these holding important governmental positions. Secretary of the Navy Knox had ghost-written pieces in no less than three. Mrs. Roosevelt, who apparently has taken over the Office of Civilian Defense as a personal possession, was, of course, in the Lady's Home Journal, and there were others. The state has been reached where it is almost routine for Cabinet members and departmental heads to capitalize their positions in this way.

SOME of them have literary agents who peddle their product. A few write the pieces themselves, and (Continued On Page Eight)

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

The newest volume of state papers reveals that Mr. Roosevelt speaks of his wife as "the Missus" just like any regular on the 15:15.

There is something comforting about having a man at the head of our state who speaks our language. We cannot imagine a wedded Mr. Hitler, for instance, referring to his wife in any other words than "Mrs. Shikelsgruber."

Wen. Wilkie calls his wife "Billie." We have no opinion on that one way or another. We have always run a normal pulse on nicknames like "Billie." An occasional drag, maybe, but usually normal.

A federal jury in Minneapolis convicted 18 men of conspiracy to disrupt the armed forces. In these trying days we will permit no disruptions except of industry.

HAPPYGRAMS

by ERICH BRANDEIS

On the plane which took me from Chicago to New York last week was a mother with her three-month-old baby.

This was one of those very fast, very high-flying planes that make the trip in under four hours and some of the passengers looked just a bit nervous, way up there above the clouds. But not so that mother, and certainly not the baby which was alternately peacefully asleep and gleefully gurgling away at its bottle.

"That baby doesn't seem to mind this a bit," I said to the smiling mother.

"No, he is too young to be afraid," she said. "That comes later."

"And aren't you afraid to fly with such a young child?"

"No, I believe in God, you see; so what difference does it make how I travel?"

Guarding Against
Holiday Thieves

Police Chief Willis G. McMullen today stated that plain-clothes operatives of the city police department have already commenced guarding shoppers and business-houses against theft.

Do not lay down pocketbooks on store counters.

Do not fail to immediately notify the police department in case of your pocketbook being stolen, your pocket being picked or your house robbed.

The Nature And Work Of The Church

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Christ teaching in the synagogue at Capernaum

"Christ also loved the church, and gave Himself up for it."

—Eph. 5:25.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Dec. 7 is Matt. 16:13-20; 18:15-20; Acts 2:37-47; 8:1; 9:31; 1 Cor. 7:17; 12:4-31; Gal. 1:13, 21-24; Eph. 1:15-23; 4:1-16; 5:25-27; Rev. 1:10, 11. The Golden Text being Eph. 5:25. "Christ also loved the church, and gave Himself up for it."

Unit is a word we hear spoken again and again in our modern world. We must have unity in our nation, unity in family life, and to do the best work of religion we must have unity in our churches.

The word "church" is first used in the New Testament when Christ told His disciples, "on this rock I will build My church." He had asked them whom men said He was. They had answered that some thought He was John the Baptist, others that He was one of the prophets. Then He turned to them and asked, "But whom say ye that I am?" And Simon Peter, always ready with an answer, said "Thou art Christ, the Son of the living God."

The answer pleased Jesus, and He called Peter blessed, "for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but My Father which is in heaven."

In the 18th chapter of Matthew Jesus tells how His church is to be conducted. If a brother in the church should wrong another the one injured should first go to him privately and tell him of it. "If he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother." In other words, if he listened and atoned for his wrong doing, nothing more was to be done; of course, if not, the one injured was to take two or three of his brethren with him and try to win the man to repentance. If he still was obdurate, the church organization was to be informed, but if he refused to listen to the church, he should be outlawed from the organization. In other words, he was to be approached with all love and forbearing, and only if he was obdurate to all pleadings was he to be expelled from the fellowship.

Peter Preaches Repentance
Another phase of the fellowship in the early church is told in Acts 2, verses 37 to 47. Peter had been speaking to the multitude and had so eloquently related the story of Jesus' life, death and resurrection, that all who heard him were much moved, and asked what they should do. Peter answered that they should repent and be baptized. A great many joined the Christians, and "all that believed were together, and had things common"; they "sold their possessions and goods, and parted them to all men, as every man had need."

Many communities have since tried this manner of living, and usually they have been failures over long periods of time, but in these early days and in the simple way these men then lived, each shared his life with the others. It was an ideal life while it was practical and while love and unity ruled. And it was following this incident that Paul related that at this time the "churches had rest throughout all Judea and Galilee and Samaria, and were edified; and walking in the fear of the Lord, and in the comfort of the Holy Ghost, were multiplied."

Writing to the Corinthians, Paul tells what is the function of men in the church. The church he likens to a human body, and the members to the parts of the body. The body has need of all these parts and cannot function without them, and the parts need the body or they would die. So each man can make his peculiar contribution to the church and thus make it a rich and inspiring thing.

Paul refers often in his writing to the fact that he persecuted Christians relentlessly before his conversion. He tells in Galatians 1 how after his change of heart he was unknown to the people of certain churches, but how they rejoiced that the one who had persecuted them was now an earnest worker with them, and "they glorified God in me," he concludes.

As a "prisoner of the Lord," Paul beseeches the Ephesians to "walk worthy of the vocation wherewith ye are called. With all lowliness and meekness, with long suffering, forbearing one another in love, endeavoring to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace."

"One Lord, one faith, one baptism."

"One God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in us all."

No as children, not knowing our own minds and being swayed this way and that is our spiritual life, Paul says, but "speaking the truth in love, we may grow up into Him in all things, which is the head, even Christ."

Sometimes, sad to say, there is dissension in the Christian church. It never should be, but human beings are weak and forget. The ideal toward which all Christians are working in this love and unity which is so eloquently set forth.

The Great Game Of Politics

wait to be asked. But in many cases, the writing is done by someone else and the official merely collects for his signature. Some give all or part of the money to charity. Mr. Knox, for example, declared at a press conference that the $3,000 he had received was divided between the men who had done the writing and the Navy Relief society. Mrs. Roosevelt has said that she gives her large radio earnings to charity, but so far as can be recalled, she has not said what she does with all of her magazine and newspaper receipts. Some just frankly pocket the money.

IT really is an astonishing state of affairs. And it is a distinct development of the New Deal—indigenous to the Roosevelt Administration. In previous administrations, it was generally accepted that high public officials made speeches to present their points of view, but they did not write articles for pay. Certainly, it was considered very below the dignity of the President or his wife to do that kind of thing. Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt early pushed that ethical standard aside, and the literary output of the latter has been as prodigious as it has been lucrative.

WITH such an example it is not surprising that all down the line others in the administration should follow suit. Why not? It opened up a new avenue of publicity for which money can be had with practically no work. And the White House has made it respectable. Nevertheless, there is a great deal of undercover official resentment at the extent to which the game has been carried. Particularly is this true with the career men in the diplomatic service. These were especially rased by the Hopkins article. It violated the basic creed of diplomacy as it had been taught them.

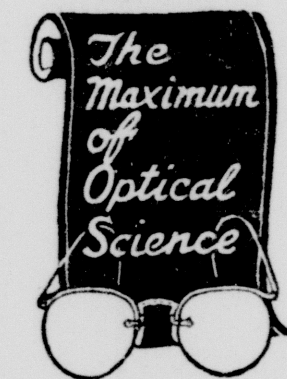

HERE is a man who goes abroad as the confidential diplomatic representative of the President of the United States. He visits the rulers of great nations and talks on the intimate terms with them about the most vital issues. He returns home and sells to a magazine an article in which he recites his experiences and gives his personal impressions of the men. True, Mr. Hopkins revealed no secrets and said nothing disagreeable. As a matter of fact, a greasy eulogy of Stalin was a conspicuous feature of his article. But the mere fact that he could write and sell such an article at all—and with presidential approval—is a shock to those who have spent their lives in diplomacy.

IF they ask this sort of thing can be done by a special ambassador, with the closest possible relations to the President, what is the use of having any diplomatic standards at all? If this sort of thing is sanctioned by the White House, how can any reasonable public man abroad be expected to talk freely to an American representative? What assurance has he that as soon as the American representative gets back home he will not sell a very personal account of his visit for publication? The only reliance he has that embarrassing revelations will not be made rests on the judgement, discretion and restraint of the representative of which the foreigner naturally knows nothing.

ANOTHER—special ambassador for the President—Mr. William C. Bullitt—has just left for the Far East. Those who know him are sure he will not follow Mr. Hopkins' lead in publishing for pay an account he nor any other American diplomat, official or unofficial, will be strengthened by Mr. Hopkins' article. Quite the reverse. This business of public officials, whether in the cabinet, in the defense machine, or functioning either as a regular or a special diplomat, selling their experiences while still in office clearly detracts from the value and effectiveness of American diplomacy.

IT is a bad custom and it should end. But, of course, it will not end so long as the White House encourages it and Mrs. Roosevelt has her market. Apparently, that lady does not grasp the point that it is not what she does with the money after she gets it that counts but how she gets it. She gets it by capitalizing her position in the White House. If she can do that, then there seems no reason anyone else in the government should not do the same thing at any time and in any way. Following the White House example, the government of the United States has added the sale of magazine articles as a lucrative individual side line for government officials and thrown ethics out the window.

land and Virginia, in apartment houses, hotel rooms, hastily-built temporary frame structures and, here and there, in what, until recently, were private homes.

Dozens and scores of 'em aren't yet listed in congressional city or telephone directories.

Quite largely they haven't even heard of one another. Their functions profusely overlap and, maybe, conflict, though. Naturally a visitor, on government business, is considerably mixed up on discovering that eight or ten different bureaus claim jurisdiction over it, that they're in mutual disagreement over it, and that maybe he hasn't found the right one, anyway.

The fight over anti-strike legislation has been one of the tightest bottlenecks. Not only were bills on the subject introduced into congress by the armful, no two of 'em reconcilable, but a multiplicity of congressional committees wrangled among themselves as to which committee was entitled to steer such lawmaking through the senate and the house of representatives. President Roosevelt had his separate idea also. So did the labor department and several groups of mediators, conciliators and arbitrators have theirs, respectively.

The personal rousks between F. D. R. and John L. Lewis was an additional complication. It's true that John L. yielded on the point of arbitration, but the general impression was that he was pretty sure, he could out-arbitrate the White House.

Nobody doubts that F. D. R. and John L. are permanently and irreconcilably at odds, not matter how it comes out.

Price control has been, all along, about as nasty a bottleneck as the anti-strike issue.

It's all very well to legislate against strikes, but if a worker wants to quit his job, how's he to be prevented from doing so? If he does, perhaps he can be penalized by military conscription, but suppose he'd rather be conscripted than work for lower pay than he insists on?

Strike-Bound Plants

True, the government can occupy strike-bound plants, but how will it operate 'em? By raising wages? That's exactly what the strikers are hollering for. Or it can grant protection to labor that's willing to work for the "frozen" pay rates.

But what if no, or darned few workers report present on that basis?

As for prices, Uncle Sam can forbid a salesman to hike his tariffs, but about the only way Uncle Sam can prevent him from doing it is by licensing him to trade, and, if he boosts his price tags, taking his license away from him. But isn't it conceivable that he'd rather lose his license than lose money over his counter? Even if it can be made to work, opponents of the plan say it's mean the suspension of free enterprise—governmentalization of everything, which plenty of commentators contend would be the same thing as totalitarianism.

Songs, Plays Mark Program At Mission

A special program of songs and plays will be sponsored in City Rescue Mission tonight at 8 by young people of the mission. Mrs. Gomer Emery will be the pianist. Superintendent Archie Gibson announced that the mission toy shop is functioning and will repair cast-off toys for distribution to needy children at Christmas. He asked donors to call Bell 430.

The Oliver Williams evangelistic party will appear at the mission Sunday, December 21. He also announced.

New Electric Rates Adopted

New Wilmington Council Takes Action—Other News Notes Of College Town

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Dec. 4.—L. B. Round, executive vice-president of the Pennsylvania Power Company, was present at the last regular meeting of the New Wilmington borough council, and explained the company's newly-adopted rates for consumers. The council then voted to adopt the rates in their entirety.

T. V. Mansell, Borough Solicitor, who also acts as Secretary for the council, entertained the members at a dinner at his home preceding the meeting. The meeting was the last for three members, Ben Kaufman, Jim McLaughry, and Frank McConnell.

Next month's meeting will be devoted to the organization of the council for the coming year. Burgess W. B. Gilliland will preside until officers are elected. Newly-elected members Wallace McKean, J. L. Gaines, Guy Neal, and Lauren Thompson will be in attendance.

Three members of the local Kiwanis club, Russell Sewall, president, W. A. Reed, secretary, and Frank Board, a member of the board of directors, attended the 4th Division Conference held in the Mt. Lebanon Baptist church on Tuesday. This meeting was for all newly-elected officers of clubs in the division.

W. A. Reed gave a talk on "The Church and its Place in Kiwanis." Other speakers were Chas. Donley, president of Kiwanis International, and Len Keck, governor of the Pennsylvania district.

A current events forum featured the last regular meeting of the New Wilmington club.

Rotary Meeting
Rev. W. A. Thornton, pastor of the Epworth Methodist church, New Castle, gave an interesting and pertinent talk on the present problems of the British educator at the last regular meeting of the New Wilmington Rotary club. The program was sponsored by that organization's International Relations Committee.

Rev. Thornton's address was built around a letter which he received recently from a niece who is a school teacher in England.

Red Cross Drive
The Red Cross Drive being held in New Wilmington begins today, and will conclude next Monday. The campaign is being sponsored by the local Defense Council.

Of every $100 donation to the Red Cross, half is sent to the national office, with the other half going to the Lawrence county chapter. All but 50c of larger gifts remains in the county.

Canvassers taking part in the Drive are: James McLaughry, Jr., Mrs. Howard Temple, Mrs. Ralph Buchanan, Mary Kissick, W. A. Reed, Edwin Anderson, Mrs. Harold Burns, Mrs. Rodney Galvin, Glenn Martin, Mrs. Gladys Wagner, Mrs. Roy Cummings, Dr. R. P. Williams, Mrs. Arthur Minter, Ellen Cotton, Mrs. Russell Wilson, Patricia Jones, and Ross Ellis.

Chest Board
The board of directors of the New Wilmington Community Chest held a business meeting recently. Members are Mrs. L. A. Ringer, Mrs. Carl Hart, Ronald Jones, Gilbert Huff, and Dave Boyd.

According to W. A. Reed, treasurer of the organization, cash contributions to date total $762.

See Political State Lottery

Thirty-Three Congressmen
To Be Elected In Political
Muddle

SOLUTION TO PROBLEM SOUGHT

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service
Staff Correspondent
HARRISBURG, Dec. 4.—A big lottery is shaping up today in Pennsylvania, and it promises to be perfectly legal, the law to the contrary notwithstanding.
At stake will be thirty-three $10-000-a-year jobs in Washington;
tenure, two years; title, congressman.

It won't be called a lottery, but that in effect is what it will prove to be unless the General Assembly, Gov. Arthur H. James or congress finds some way of restricting the state and preventing an election-at-large of all congressional candidates in next year's election.

May Be Hundreds
There is every indication that if congressmen are elected in 1942 by statewide vote there will be hundreds of candidates entered in the Republican and Democratic May primary election.

The lottery will begin before the ballots are printed. The drawing will be held by the state bureau of elections in the hall of the house of representatives at the state capitol.
Each candidate or a representative will pull a number from a heavy canvas pouch.

If candidate John Doe or his representative pulls the number five from the pouch, then his name will appear fifth on the ballot.

In view of the fact that there will probably be 200 or more candidates for congress in a statewide election, political observers believe that the candidates whose names are listed among the first 33 on the ballot will be nominated and if the party wins in the fall they will also be elected.

They reason this way: If, when John Citizen goes to the primary polls on May 19 he finds a list of 200 or more names staring him in the face (not to mention the names of candidates for other posts), he is going to obey the instructions to "vote for 33 only" by pulling the levers after the names of the first 33 candidates.

Will Be Lottery
That's why it will be a lottery and that's why there probably will be as many as 200 or more candidates on each party's ticket.

It will be a sad day for congressmen who seek re-election, because they are liable to be lost in the shuffle.
Pity the poor representative whose name appears 197th on the list. Patrick J. Boland, Scranton Democrat and party whip in the house, says he will not run in an at-large election.

There are certain measures each party can take in the event of a statewide election for congress in an effort to nominate and elect the candidates it favors, rather than the neighborhood butcher, the baker and the garbageman—as one state senator put it—who may also be running.

One would be for each state committee to endorse the names of the 33 candidates it favors. Another would be to print sample ballots and check off the names of the 33 endorsed candidates. The big question even then is whether a majority of the voters would go to the trouble of checking through a list of 200 or more names. To many it would seem too much like looking for a needle in the haystack.

Grand Jury In Mercer County Shy One Member

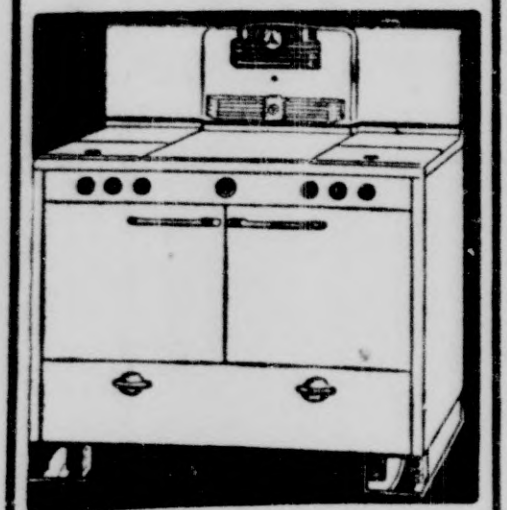

(International News Service)
MERCER, Pa., Dec. 4.—The labor shortage caught up with Mercer county's administration of justice
Wednesday when only a dozen members reported for grand jury. The law specifies that at least 13 persons must serve.

Judge George H. Rowley permitted the 12 to serve, because only minor cases were involved. Of the 23 jurors summoned for duty, four were excused, and six others had left Mercer county.

Mother, This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Wonderful

Saves Real Money. No Cooking. Quick Results.
To get the most surprising relief from coughs due to colds, you can easily prepare a medicine, right in your own kitchen. It's very easy—a child could do it—needs no cooking, and tastes so good that children take it willingly. But you'll say it beats them all for quick results.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any drugstore, and pour it into a pint bottle. Then add your syrup.

This gives you a full pint of really splendid cough syrup—about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and lasts a family a long time.

And for real, quick relief, it can't be beaten. It acts in three ways—loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Ford Urges Federation

Auto Magnate Gives View Of After War Peace Needs

INTERVIEW GIVEN BY DETROIT MAN

(International News Service)
DETROIT, Dec. 4.—The present world conflict provides an opportunity for a world federation after the war is over and such a federation must start now in the United States with this country taking a leading part, Henry Ford said Wednesday.

"World federation will mean the elimination of customs barriers, economic barriers and the establishment of the good neighbor policy throughout the world to the end that people may live in harmony and goodwill," the 78-year-old industrialist said in an interview with a representative of the Detroit Times.

Unless such a federation is brought about—in which all peoples may live in peace and prosperity—each new war will be more terrible than the last, Ford said, explaining:

U. S. Is Example
"The United States is a practical example of federation. We federated because it was the only way to save ourselves from ruin. Europe is finding she cannot live unfederated today."

"If the United States puts its influence behind it, the same type of agreement can be arrived at in Europe. No country should be forced in, but every country soon would see the advantages to be gained by voluntarily coming in."

"They would need no armies and there would be no wars because nations would all be neighbors in the same federation. This in turn would lead to a universal currency and a universal economy and a developed industry that would have all the world for its markets."

Time To Start
"The point I make is that the time is here to start the federation."

The interview with the "wizard of River Rouge" took place in the office of Harry H. Bennett, personnel director of the Ford Motor Company, and it was the first interview given by Ford since his company, after he was released from a contract with the UAW-CIO. But he made no mention of that as he spoke of his vision—a world federation.

Ford said that Alfred Lord Tennyson first conceived the idea of a federation of the world.

"The last prophecy along this line was made just 10 years ago by Tennyson," he said. "His 'Locksley Hall' was a marvelous forecast of things to come."

"He forecast the invention of the airplane as an instrument of peace. Then he saw it turned into a terrible tool of war. After that he saw the drums become silent in the parliament of man, the federation of the world."

"Everything has come in the order he saw it, right up to the present time. All that remains to come is the parliament of man, the federation of the world."

"I think the time is here and I think America has a big part in it."

Trade With Vichy Brings Warning

Britain Warns Latin America About Trade With Unoccupied France

(International News Service)
LONDON, Dec. 4.—Great Britain has served a new warning on Latin American countries against trading with unoccupied France, the ministry of economic warfare announced.

Britain will regard any attempt to trade with Vichy in the same light as trading with Germany and Italy, it was announced.

Any neutral maintaining commercial and financial relations with France will be liable to inclusion on the statutory list without further warning, the announcement said.

Commenting on the extent of Vichy collaboration with the Germans, the ministry pointed out that only one out of every five airplanes manufactured in unoccupied France is retained, the other four being shipped to Germany.

French factories are still producing French types of aircraft, it was said, but when parts are exhausted they turn to making German standard types of bombers and fighters.

The French, according to the announcement, are also repairing damaged German planes and re-making parachutes. The number of German planes obtained from French factories, although not small, is less than the Germans hoped for, it was said.

New Castle Woman Sails As Stewardess On Boats In War Zones

Sailing as a stewardess on Uncle Sam's ocean liners, affiliated with the American Export Lines, and more recently having experiences in war-infested waters, the Mediterranean Sea, Mrs. W. J. Speidel, (Ruth Brown) relates some stirring insights to The News.

Mrs. Speidel, who has been associated with this type of work since November, 1929, has traveled around the world a number of times. She is the sister of W. D. Brown, of Mulberry street, and Mrs. Harry E. Shaffer of 514 North Mercer street, where she is visiting, since arriving here from the docks of New York on the Excambion, a boat transporting refugees from Portugal to New York.

"As soon as the refugees get on the decks of the passenger boat, their first question is 'Where is the dining room?' Their first meal leaves no guess work as to how long it has been since they last tasted food. They practically bury their faces in their plates, and eat much too fast. Many carry paper bags to the tables, and when they think they aren't being noticed, will jam buttered buns, fruit and other edibles into it, for reserve."

"Hitler To Surprise World" "All this turmoil takes me back to the Alcazar night club in Hamburg, Germany, in 1936. I was dancing with a German soldier who commented: 'Hitler is going to surprise the world. He is preparing to conquer the world.'"

"The capsizing of a refugee passenger boat from Poland, I'll never forget. A storm was raging, and the boat, being turned away at every port, set sail again to Nowhere. A horrible crashing noise was heard—then suddenly it silenced in the hushing waters. Bodies were seen afloat, in all directions. The sound of somber warning signals of rescue boats arose out of the darkness—but too late. The boat was an old rambling one, and it was in bits."

"An attempted air raid forced our boat into port at Marseilles, France, during the blackout, when invaders flew low overhead trying to spot an ammunition plant. They didn't succeed. The docks were locked and we remained there until permitted to leave. In going to town, each person carries a flashlight. No one ventures out alone. Robberies are numerous during these periods."

"A frequent sight is refugees stealing along the shores at night to get out of occupied France. They bribe guards to get through to the American consul where they arrange for passage with the money they have left, and they work their way across on the ocean liners, washing dishes, cleaning fish and other odd jobs. People really suffer hardships. In spite of their hunger, you see refugees hugging what few treasured personal belongings they can carry as relics of a once happy home."

"Blackouts on board ship are religiously practiced, blue paper being placed over portholes and doors to conceal all traces of light. Fire drills are equally important, and a stewardess has to have a high rating for safely placing life belts on passengers."

When asked impressions of refugees at the sight of the Statue of Liberty, Mrs. Speidel dropped in her chair in silence, as though frozen with the thoughts running through her mind.

"Old U. S. Looks Good"

"The Statue of Liberty—Our Sweetheart of the Sea—is what she is to us. I can't possibly put into words, the reactions of refugees. Some kneel down and pray, with hands folded as though reaching out to God, to give thanks. Some stand silently as though paralyzed, never taking their eyes off her. Others cry joyously, and others become choked with tears, unable to speak. Often we get calls twenty-four hours before time to dock, the passengers hysterically packing so to spend the entire time watching from portholes and decks, for a mere glimpse of our symbol of peace and welcome, the Statue of Liberty. They patiently wait for hours, for a more vivid outline of our beloved and faithful sweetheart."

"I have often said, I hope they never bomb the Isle of Capri, the most picturesque and romantic spot in the world. But, the Statue of Liberty, she is even more beautiful! Of all the countries in which I have traveled, give me America. The vision of Our Sweetheart of the Sea is the best sight of all, and HOME forever, to me."

WILL SPEAK SUNDAY AT REFORMED CHURCH

F. E. Welker, well known in New Castle, will speak in the Reformed Presbyterian church at Rose Point on next Sunday evening, December 7.

Rev. A. W. Smith, pastor of the church, has announced that Mr. Welker will speak on tithing and stewardship.

The duty of Congress is not to grant every whim of the people, but to represent them as they are when they understand.

Contract Is Let For T. N. T. Plant Near Meadville

MEADVILLE Pa., Dec. 4.—A contract for constructing the government's new $40,000,000 explosives plant near here has been awarded the Frasier-Brace Engineering Corporation of New York and Wilmington, Del. It was announced in Washington.

Heavy Fog Cuts Attendance
At Meeting In Princeton
Wednesday Night

SLIPPERY ROCK
WINS CONTEST

Although one of the heaviest fogs which has enveloped the local district in some time, cut down the attendance at the big district meeting of the Future Farmers of America, scheduled at Princeton high school last evening, there were over 200 youths from the area present and a class of 65 candidates received the degree of Future Farmer.

The initiation ceremony was conducted by Council President John Johnson, and his corps of officers.

L. B. Round, vice president and general manager of the Pennsylvania Power Company was present and gave the Penn Power Company award to the Slippery Rock Chapter, who were winners of the Junior Poultry Show held in connection with the New Castle Fair last summer.

Slippery Rock won the elimination contest for the project to represent the district at the State Farm Show at Harrisburg the last of the month. They demonstrated an electric fence, East Brook with an egg marketing demonstration was second, and Portersville was third with a barn ventilation demonstration.

The judging was done by J. P. Champion, Future Farmer Advisor of Allegheny county.

North Hill Home
Burglary Scene

Residence Of Attorney Rhodes
On Highland Avenue Is Entered Last Night

Police today were searching for house thieves, another North Hill burglary having been staged last night.

The house robbed was that of Attorney and Mrs. James W. Rhodes, 1005 Highland avenue. A man's watch worth $125.00, was stolen. The house was ransacked while the family was away. Recently two Moody avenue houses were entered.

Mrs. Rhodes was out of the city for several days and early Wednesday evening Attorney Rhodes went to Youngstown to bring Mrs. Rhodes home. While the locked house was unoccupied the robbery occurred.

The thief crawled through a window of a room used as a breakfast nook some time between 7 p. m. and 8:50 p. m. and after stealing the watch and ransacking the house left it through a dining room window.

Detectives have been trying to apprehend the North Hill burglar.

Knudsen Assails Pest Of Strikes

Deplores Wave Of Defense Strikes That Have Hampered Production

CAN'T UNDERSTAND "SUCH FOOLISHNESS"

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—In rather sharp tone, mild-mannered William S. Knudsen, Director General of the Nation's Defense Program, on Wednesday deplored the recent wave of strikes and labor troubles that have hampered defense production, declaring he "couldn't understand such foolishness" at a time of grave national emergency.

Addressing more than 1,000 delegates to the forty-sixth annual Congress of American Industry of the National Association of Manufacturers, Knudsen said the United States has been through a rather difficult period "with production generally on the upgrade."

"We have been subjected to a pest of strikes which culminated in the coal strike in November," he said, adding that such strikes involved the usual demands for closed shop, union shops, preferential shops "and what not."

Can't Understand
"I can't for the life of me understand why in a declared unlimited national emergency such foolishness as this can go on. Here we are in a very good position on wages and working conditions in practically every field of industry. We have to stop and argue about jurisdictional disputes, organizational disputes, and God knows what."

Solemnly, he asserted:
"We are up against a military machine which is clicking altogether too well to suit me and we will have to catch up with it before 1942 is over. Otherwise, it's going to be anybody's guess as to how long the show is going to last."

He drew a hearty round of applause when he declared:
"Let us by everlasting God, see to it that the boys, if they have to go, go with a gun in their hands and not a broomhandle."

Chilean Girl Is One Of Britain's Ace Ferry Pilots

(International News Service)
LONDON, Dec. 4.—Margot Duhalde of Santiago, Chile, is the baby of Britain's women ferry pilots.

With 350 flying hours but little English to her credit, this twenty-year-old girl took a ship for England at Montevideo three months ago. Six weeks later she was accepted for the Air Transport Auxiliary training, and will soon be flying Spitfires, Hurricanes and perhaps bombers from factories to R. A. F. bases all over England.

Some of her seventy colleagues, British, French, Poles and Czechs have been flying bombers for three months.

Ferry pilots, men and women, are trained at this airdrome by Miss Joan Hughes, formerly Britain's youngest ferry pilot.

Her chief, Miss Pauline Gower, was enthusiastic about her ability. "That girl could fly anything, and long to do so," she said, "but she sticks to this job and is doing a real public service."

There is one woman to every ten men in the Air Transport Service which said Miss Gower, has the lowest accident rate of any air service.

MIAMI AIR SQUADRON

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 4.—With 55 pilots and 54 planes already listed for membership in a Miami squadron, all private fliers in South Florida shortly will be organized into an air arm of the state defense forces. Squadrons, to be drawn from 10 counties in the area, will not be used for actual combat, but will serve as observers for transportation and for communication in cases of emergency.

School Head Tells Of Fight Against Tuberculosis Here

Believes Seal Sale Should Be Successful So That Work May Be Continued

In connection with the current Christmas Seal drive of the Lawrence County Tuberculosis Society, Dr. C. C. Green, superintendent of the New Castle School System, made the following statement, telling of the continuous fight being carried on against tuberculosis.

"Education of the public in matters relating to tuberculosis, its cause, prevention and cure is the first aim of the Lawrence County Tuberculosis Association. Cooperation with the state health department may be considered in second place."

"And the third important objective of the work is research, that is, continued study of new methods in meeting the tuberculosis problem as it exists in society at the present moment. But, above and beyond this, a relentless attack on the cause of the whole sad situation—the very insignificant, but very virulent little bacillus of tuberculosis itself. To this end, the tuberculosis association, through the generous public, is helping to support the work of the medical research committees of the National Tuberculosis Association."

"It is highly desirable that the public should know something of the present study—that of chemical research—because it marks a departure in the field of scientific investigation. The process is based on the cultivation of the tubercle bacilli, not in small test tubes, as has been done for many years, but in very large quantities, so that several pounds of pure bacteria are available for analysis in the chemical laboratory. This material is there analyzed to determine the exact nature of the substances which enter into the composition of the active little germ. It is not necessary to explain that the hope in this work lies in the possibility that, by knowing the essential elements of the enemy's structure, a scheme may be devised whereby a more accurate defense may be set up against his murderous attacks on the human body."

"Of late there have been a number of optimistic comments on the well recognized fact that the death rate in tuberculosis has fallen sharply during the past 40 years. From occupying first place among causes of death it has fallen to seventh place. While none know better than workers in the field of mankind, we who are in the ranks of fighters, find only partial comfort in the lowered tuberculosis mortality as it exists today."

"To produce a rapid lowering of the former death rate does not mean that the fight is won. Those of you who remember your Civil War history will recall that while Gettysburg, its turning point, was fought in 1863, the war still continued through two years of sanguinary campaigning before the final surrender at Appomattox Court House. Napoleon's constant admonition was never to underestimate the strength of the enemy's forces."

"To educate the citizens of Lawrence county is the year-round task of the Lawrence County Tuberculosis Association. Then, working in close cooperation with all of the more than 1,600 tuberculosis associations, the nation is being educated regarding the prevention and cure of tuberculosis. This may seem a presumptuous task for the tiny Christmas Seal. But it is on such a dauntless venture that it embarks."

Youthful Slayers Of Motor Patrolman Captured In Missouri

(International News Service)
BLOOMSDALE, Mo., Dec. 4.—Two youths sought in the shooting and fatal wounding of State Highway Patrolman Fred L. Walker, 29, of Gallatin, Mo., were captured Wednesday in Perryville, Mo., where they were found hiding in the basement of a residence.

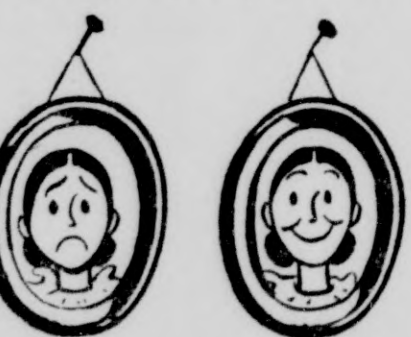

The youths, who identified themselves as Norman Votaw, 20, and George King, 17, both of Centralia, Ill., were quoted by officers as saying that Walker shot himself accidentally with his own gun in a scuffle while arresting them as automobile theft suspects Tuesday near Bloomsdale.

Before his death Walker said he had handcuffed the pair and placed them in his car when one of the youths shot him with a gun he apparently missed when he had searched them.

I MAKE THIS SOLEMN PLEDGE....

WHEN I PROMISED at the beginning of the Fall and Winter season that in keeping with our NEW LOW PRICE POLICY we would sell goods in our stores at prices which would be the same or lower than those of a year ago, there were people who wondered whether we would be able to fulfill that promise.

★ ★ The fact is, there has been virtually a 100 per cent fulfillment of my promise. With the exception of a few items, no garment is sold in our stores at a higher price than in 1940, and most garments are priced even lower than last year.

★ ★ We are gratified that so many visitors to our stores have discovered the truth of the above statement and that their purchases, by adding to the volume of our business, vindicated our policy. A sharp increase of business more than compensated for the smaller margin of profit on individual sales.

★ ★ In the face of rising costs, it required a spint of daring to sell goods at prices below those of 1940. But, by abandoning old-fashioned marketing methods . . . by reducing credit losses to a minimum, and with sales mounting to sensational heights, we were able . . . through the support and cooperation of the public . . . to make our NEW LOW PRICE POLICY a great success.

★ ★ As Yuletide approaches, it gives me genuine pleasure to tell our customers that they can purchase their Christmas gifts and holiday clothing with the satisfaction of knowing that they are not paying one cent more than they did last year and that, in most instances, they will be PAYING LESS THAN THEY DID A YEAR AGO.

★ ★ Not only during the coming Christmas season but at all times, I make this solemn pledge: I will continue to sell goods at the lowest possible prices regardless of rising costs, in my determination to KEEP PRICES DOWN.

★ ★ Also, I make a further solemn pledge: I shall devote all the time that I can spare to spreading the gospel of lower prices, in the hope that every merchant throughout the country will follow our example.

★ ★ If all merchants, manufacturers and distributors do their utmost in this direction, and if the public patronizes those who follow this policy, it is my firm conviction that prices will not rise to the dizzy heights they did during the last World War.

★ ★ Having made my pledge, I invite the patronage of all those who want to JOIN with me in the movement to KEEP PRICES DOWN.

Three Russian Ships Are Sunk

Such Is Report From Helsinki—Disasters Occur In Gulf of Finland

(International News Service)
HELSINKI, Dec. 4.—Three Russian ships have been sunk in the Gulf of Finland, two by Finnish coastal artillery at Porkkala, and the third by collision with a mine, it was announced today.

The 12,000-ton Soviet transport ship Josef Stalin, coming from evacuated Hangoe, was severely damaged by Finnish artillery and reached the Estonian coast before hoisting the white flag of surrender, it was claimed.

Berlin reported that the Josef Stalin had been damaged by colliding with the German mine field and was captured off the Estonian coast. It was brought into a German port with 6,000 Russians aboard, it was added.

RUSSIANS CLAIM GERMAN TROOPS ARE DRIVEN BACK

on the southern approaches to Moscow, the Nazis were slowly retreating in the direction of Stalingrad.

Pravda added, however, that in the Volokolamsk sector the Russians evacuated a number of villages and the situation there remained "grave." Other articles told of "terrific German pressure" in the Volokolamsk area.

Far to the south of Moscow the Russians were said to have hurled the Germans from the "Important City of K" north of Stalingrad.

At Tula, 110 miles south of Moscow, the fighting was growing "increasingly violent," Pravda said.

Making Progress

The Russian offensives on the northern (Leningrad) and southern (Sea of Azov) fronts were apparently making rapid strides, while the third Red Army below in the Klin sector of the Moscow front was reported gaining considerable strength.

In the south the German armies of Col. Gen. Ewald Von Kleist were declared to be in full retreat from Taganrog toward Mariupol.

The noon high command communique said merely that fighting continued on the entire front throughout the night.

Reports from the front added that two Italian divisions, the Unio and Tuscania units, in this region already were throwing down their arms.

Far to the north, Russian reports said, Soviet forces recaptured still more villages near Tikhvin, 110 miles east of Leningrad.

German losses in the latest fighting were declared to be 5,000 dead and 32 tanks and 333 cars destroyed.

German Drive Stopped

One Russian dispatch said German plans to cut off Leningrad "now have failed and the German movement finally has been stopped."

Authorities said the Russian counter-attacks in the north and nullified the successes gained by the Germans in a drive from Budogosh which cut the Tikhvin-Volkhov railroad.

Military officials in Kuibyshev conceded the situation on the Volokolamsk front southwest of Moscow remains grave and that the Germans captured several more villages in this area despite "unsparring Soviet efforts to counter-act the terrific German pressure."

South of Moscow, it was claimed, the Russians evicted the Germans from "the important city of K" north of Stalingrad.

A Russian radio broadcast said that the Soviets are firmly holding their positions in the Crimea, where the Germans have been trying to capture the Russian naval base of Sevastopol.

German Report

BERLIN, Dec. 4.—Defeat of strong Red army attacks in the Donetz Basin on the southern Russian front was announced by the German high command today.

A new war communique said the Soviet assaults were beaten off with heavy losses to the Russians.

Outside Leningrad, it was stated, renewed Soviet attempts to break out of the German iron ring were frustrated.

"The German air force destroyed a side track of the Murmansk railway and bombed Leningrad by day and night," the communique said.

"Finnish troops occupied Hangoe."

In its flight from there, the 12,000-ton Soviet transport ship Josef Stalin encountered a German-Finnish mine barrier and was damaged by three mines.

Capture Transport

"Two German outpost boats with a crew of 80 men took the transport ship in tow and brought her to a German base with 6,000 soldiers of all ranks on board, as well as much war materials."

"In the course of a naval encounter in the channel, a blockade-breaker sank two British speedboats and damaged two more boats. Outpost boats joined the fight and sank a British gunboat and seriously damaged an enemy speedboat."

"In North Africa there were no big actions yesterday."

"From Nov. 26 to Dec. 2 squadrons of the German air force and naval units shot down 44 British planes. In the same period in the war against Britain, six of our own planes were lost."

Earlier it was announced that Nazi planes had relentlessly pounded roads and railways in the Moscow area and that German military successes were continuing in the Moscow sector.

HULL'S STATEMENT BRINGS ATTACKS FROM JAPANESE

to create a new order in East Asia which aims at attaining permanent peace and prosperity for all."

Lash At Hull

Simultaneously the Japanese news agency Domei lashed at American Secretary of State Cordell Hull for revealing contents of his talks with Japanese representatives in Washington.

The agency quoted authoritative quarters as stating:

"Hull's abrupt announcement of the contents of the talks is deplored as exceedingly untimely at this stage of the negotiations."

"His revelation of the purpose of the document handed to the Japanese envoys is incomprehensible and has given rise to added doubt as to whether the United States sincerely desires outcome of the talks."

Hull's statement, Domei said, has served to "darken the future" of Japanese-American negotiations. Japanese officials, the agency continued, are disappointed over the intentions of the United States to "support time-worn doctrines which are inapplicable to actualities."

From now on, it was said, Japan must conduct her negotiations "with greatest caution." All Tokyo newspapers expressed "shocked surprise" and extreme pessimism over the future as a result of the secretary's declaration.

Japanese Attitude

Foreign Minister Togo declared: "It is more significant at a time like this that the representatives of Japan, Manchukuo and China should get together to discuss and decide measures for strengthening their economic ties in the interest of realizing economic self-sufficiency within their common prosperity sphere."

Finance Minister Okunori Kaya declared in an address that imposition of the American and British freezing orders on Japanese, Chinese and Manchukuoan assets, "instead of discouraging the powers concerned has served to spur them on to establish a solid economic front in East Asia."

Tokyo newspapers expressed surprise and pessimism regarding the future of Japanese-American negotiations as a result of Hull's statement stressing the United States' view of the basic issues involved.

A headline published by Nichi Nichi said:

"Hull slanders Japanese national policy and reveals the United States is insincere regarding the Japanese-American negotiations."

Asahi charged the United States with "attempting to shift responsibility."

The newspapers said they had no hope that the United States would drop its "unrealistic principles."

Hochi Shimbun commented: "The deep differences existing between the United States and Japan arise out of fundamental differences in political and philosophical ideas."

The privy council held its regular meeting today and the latest diplomatic developments surrounding Japan with special reference to the Japanese-American negotiations were set forth by Premier Hideki Tojo and Foreign Minister Togo.

Meanwhile, the newspaper Kokumin advised the government against making any reply to President Roosevelt's demand for an explanation of Nipponese troop concentrations in French Indo-China.

AXIS TROOPS IN LIBYA ARE BEING HEMMED IN

believed that German Gen. Erwin Rommel has decided upon a show-down rather than a withdrawal through this narrow corridor.

In preparation for the coming fight, British advisers said, the Germans already have started to dig themselves into the desert.

All indications were that the battle-worn units on both sides are sorting themselves out for the next phase of the battle, which is expected to commence soon after the present relative lull.

It seems clear that the British, having hemmed the Germans along the coast, now will attempt to drive them into the sea or at least to positions within range of the guns of British warships roaming up and down the coastline.

Meanwhile, flying British columns still were fighting to prevent the Axis forces from sending tank reinforcements to their isolated front-

Lull In Battle

Cairo, Dec. 4.—British military headquarters announced today that a lull in the fighting in Libya has continued for the past 24 hours.

The communique said: "During the last 24 hours the lull in the fighting has continued."

"In one small engagement three Italian tanks were destroyed."

"On the main front southeast of Tobruk some small bodies of the enemy endeavoring to move toward the Sidi Aziz area were engaged by our mobile columns."

"In the frontier area our forces continued their pressure on isolated enemy centers of resistance in that region. Throughout the whole day our patrols were actively engaged in observing and harassing the enemy."

"Our air forces continue to carry out sweeps over the whole battle ground. Motor transport on the Capuzzo road and large concentrations of enemy vehicles in a Wadi near Sidi Rezegh were successfully attacked."

London, Dec. 4.—British military authorities declared today that rain has hampered operations in Libya during the past 24 hours but that British forces have been attacking enemy transport columns on the Capuzzo road near the Libyan-Egyptian border.

They said there was no information at the moment to indicate the major battle had been resumed.

Three Plays Will Be Presented By College Casts

Will Run Four Nights At Little Theatre At Westminster College

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Dec. 4.—Three Little Theatre plays are scheduled at Westminster college for a run of four nights, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, December 10-13. The plays are: "The Theatre of the Soul," Nikolai Yezhov; "The Long Christmas Dinner," Thornton Wilder; and "The Torchbearers," George Kelly.

"The Theatre of the Soul" is an expressionistic "monodrama" whose action takes place within the human chest in a fraction of a second. The characters are personifications of the Mind, the Emotions, and the Soul. In the cast are Henry Herchenrother, Pittsburgh, as The Professor; Sam Smith, Cadiz, Q., as The Intellect; Forrest Rosenberger, Pittsburgh, as The Emotions; Glenn Chadwick, Columbiana, O., as The Spirit; the wife, Virginia Zapp, Philadelphia; and the Singer, Betty Anne Smythe, New Wilmington.

"The Long Christmas Dinner" dramatizes ninety-years in the growth and death of a household, seen as a continuous Christmas feast. Birth and death are represented by comings and goings through symbolic doorways. Play-ers are required not only to perform pantomime but also to age as much as forty-five years during the short play.

In the cast are Elizabeth Rotzler, Beaver, Miriam Wilson, Ridgway; Walter Bright, Smithport; Jack Brooks, Beaver Falls; Joseph Alter, Mt. Hermon, Mass.; Helene Edgar, New Castle; Margaret Orr, New Wilmington; Katherine Polizoli, Farrell; Betsy Bush, Mt. Lebanon; Glenn Chadwick, Columbiana, O.; Lois Gruener, Brownsville; and James Cleveland, Laurel, Md.

George Kelly's "The Torchbearers" is a satire on amateur theatricals, centering about the second act of the play, when a group of "amateurs" present their play in "Horticulture Hall" under the direction of one "Mrs. Pampinelli".

The production is seen from behind the scenes and is full of calamities. In the cast: Betty Jane Hughes, Gibsons; Betty Humes, Aspinwall; June Mathewson, Plainfield, N. J.; Dorothy Harper, Coraopolis; Joseph McCreary, Youngstown, O.; James Pile, Canonsburg; Jack Ogle, Brackenridge; William Horean, New Castle; Fred Nahas, New Castle; and Henry Herchenrother, Pittsburgh. The curtain for the plays will go up at 8:15 o'clock, with Dr. A. T. Cordray acting as dramatic director.

Smoke Floats Guide Steamer To Crew's Rescue

By LOWELL BENNETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Dec. 4.—The story of a dramatic mid-Atlantic rescue of the crew of a RAF plane by a merchant ship "guided" to the spot by smoke floats from another plane was today told in London.

The Air Safety Service of the RAF was able to determine the exact position in the Atlantic where the plane had come down. Long-range Coastal Command planes contacted the survivors in their dinghy half a dozen times within a few hours.

The Royal Navy diverted a destroyer to the spot from several miles away, but it arrived a few minutes after the air-crew had been rescued by the merchant ship. The first plane, after locating the dinghy, turned away to find help. About six miles off the pilot saw a British freighter on her way home. He signaled to her that he had located some airmen in the water but that he was unable to rescue them himself.

Visibility was very poor, but the ship's captain conveyed the idea of laying a trail of smoke floats between his ship and the dinghy.

The pilot complied. The freighter followed from one smoke float to another and within an hour was able to reach and rescue the airmen.

Authors labor to find the right word, but any angry woman instantly thinks of the one that will take the hide off.

Plagiarists would make good editors. The stuff they pick out to steal is always good enough to sell again.

William Aibel Suffers Injury

Veteran Carpenter Has Vertebra Broken In Fall From Scaffold

William Aibel, aged 77 years, of 20 Smithfield street, veteran carpenter of this city, suffered a fracture of the fifth cervical vertebra when he fell from a scaffold at a home on which he was working on the Pulaski road, late Wednesday morning.

He was admitted to the Jameson Memorial hospital at 11:45 o'clock, where he is undergoing treatment. It was stated at the hospital this morning that he had a good night and that his condition was fairly good.

Axis Submarine Action Checked

Action Of Axis Subs In North Atlantic Checked, Secretary Knox Reveals

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Secretary of Navy Knox intimated Wednesday that the United States and British naval forces have succeeded in checking Axis submarine activities in the North Atlantic.

He hinted that was the reason for the recent marked drop in sinkings of merchant ships but he parried all questions seeking to bring forth a definite answer.

"You can make your own guess," he told reporters at a press conference.

Knox, himself a newspaper publisher, advised reporters that they could find a "good story" behind the reported drop in sinkings. In reply to another question, Knox said that the navy had received no report that the German battleship Tirpitz was headed for the Pacific.

The only comment he made regarding the present critical situation in the Far East was that the British admiralty had advised the American naval officials beforehand that it was sending naval reinforcements to Singapore. He said he had not been informed how many ships had been sent to the far eastern port.

Davis To Speak At Westminster

Collegians To Hear Discussion Of "Our Latin-American Policy"

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Dec. 4.—Howard Pierce Davis, veteran editor, correspondent, and news-analyst, will speak on "What Is Our Latin American Policy?" in the Westminster college chapel, at 8:15 o'clock Friday evening.

During the past summer, Mr. Davis travelled through Latin America to study the effects of Nazi influence.

In 1931, Mr. Davis interviewed Hitler in the Little Brown House in Munich and was told by "Der Fuehrer" that in eighteen months he would be called on to take over the government in Berlin. In less than a year, Hitler was "in the saddle," and he sent Davis a Christmas card reminding him of the prophecy.

Mr. Davis is a graduate of Wesleyan university where he taught history and economics before becoming a newsman and commentator.

In addition to making a study of alien influences in Latin America, Mr. Davis also made an intensive study of the situation in Mexico, particularly with reference to the election that put President Comacho in office.

NEW BUS SERVICE STARTS THURSDAY DECEMBER 11

COMplete modernization of the City's transportation facilities comes to New Castle next Thursday. That afternoon a fine fleet of new, speedy Diesel and gas motored buses will begin regular service, taking the place of the present street cars and buses on all lines in the city.

The present service will continue throughout the morning. The change will be made, starting at 2:00 p. m. In the morning you will ride downtown in your usual street car or bus. In the afternoon you will ride home in a new bus—modern, comfortable, convenient, efficient in every detail.

You will like your rides in the new buses. They are of the latest design for city service—speedy, reliable, amply powered for all-weather operation equipped with the latest and best devices for safety and passenger comfort.

Buses Pull to the Curb

All passengers will board the buses and alight from them at the curb. No longer will you have to walk through traffic to the middle of the street to board a street car. The buses will pull to the curb, so that you may board or alight easily, conveniently and safely.

The new service also will aid materially in solving the city's traffic problem. No longer will street cars cause delays, and no longer will your transportation vehicle be held up by an automobile or truck parked too close to the railway.

Deny Plans For New Dam Project On Clarion River

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 4.—U. S. Army engineers in Pittsburgh today denied they have any immediate intentions of constructing a power dam in Clarion County which, if built, would engulf one-third of Cooks Forest.

"We've made surveys on that site for a long time," said Major Herbert D. Vogel, executive officer in charge, "but no money can be allocated now for such a purpose."

The major admitted that surveys have been continued in that region in recent weeks but with no definite intentions of building the dam now.

"We intend to build a dam there someday, but it won't be in the immediate future," he said.

Denies Charges Made Against UAW Organizers

(International News Service)
DETROIT, Dec. 4.—R. J. Thomas, president of the UAW-CIO, today labeled as "totally false" charges made by Rep. Martin Dies (D., Tex.) that the union has employed men with criminal records as organizers and that men listed by the congressman as "UAW organizers" have never been employed by the union.

In a prepared statement, Thomas said: "Dies' allegation that the UAW employed as organizers five men with criminal records is totally false. Not one of the five men whom Dies calls 'CIO organizers' is now or ever was employed by our organization."

Remember the Alamo. Americans get licked only when they barricade themselves and wait to repel attack.

New Castle To Battle South

Youngstown South Quintet Will Help New Castle Lift Lid On New Season

LOCALS ARE WELL SET WITH VETS

New Castle high school basketball team after drilling for the past several weeks, will open the 1941-42 season at the George Washington Junior High gym on Euclid avenue against the fast Youngstown South High team at 8 o'clock Friday evening. The preliminary starts at 7 o'clock with the reserves of both teams tussling.

Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh was still uncertain today who would get the starting nod on tomorrow evening. He has a flock of seasoned veterans on the premises and cannot make up his mind definitely.

South Fine Team
South will bring a fine team here to battle the locals. It will be the initial game of the year for both clubs. The New Castle starting line-up will be contained from the following stars of last year: Charley "Red" Ross, John Zubkowsky, Bobby Lee, Melchar, Tommy Parou, and Bob Cooper. In reserve and also fine players "Bridy" will have—Hen Burris, Joey Clazza and Wilbur Young. Robert Mills ticket manager announced the following prices for the game—students 20 cents, general admission 30 cents and reserved seats 40 cents.

ITHACA—Cornell suffered a stroke of misfortune at the kickoff in its 16-0 defeat by Pennsylvania, when Fullback Joe Martin wrenched his knee and could not return.

LIKES WEATHERLY
WASHINGTON—Bucy Harris of the Senators is said to be interested in Cleveland outfielder Roy Weatherly.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Billy Conn intends to fight himself into condition for a second bout with Joe Louis, having lost the first in the 13th round after having Joe groggy in the 12th round. Conn intends to fight four times. One of the battles will find Tony Zale, middleweight champion, as an opponent.

Mordecai Brown, who started his career with Terre Haute in the Three-I loop in 1901 and later pitched the Chi-Cubs to 186 victories between 1904 and 1912, will be back with Terre Haute next spring. He has acquired an interest in the club and will help in the club's operation.

Remember Fritz Zenger, former preliminary fighter? In an accident some time ago he unfortunately lost his hearing so some of his friends are binding together to obtain a gadget that once again will permit Fritz to hear. At present he cannot hear a sound.

Three "Little Biscuits," sired by the great Sea Biscuit, have been nominated for the 1942 Arlington and Washington park Futurities. Fritz Zivie will box Kid McCoy of Detroit in New York, December 12. Don Faurot of Missouri believes his Missourians will beat Fordham in the Sugar bowl.

Factor Planning Strong Quintet

Plans Going Forward To Have One Of Strongest Girl Teams in Country Here

Joe Factor, local well known sportsman is making plans this season to sponsor one of the strongest girl basketball teams in the United States. The team will begin drills in a few days at the Falcon Hall on Miller avenue.

This is the fifth year that the Factor girls have been together. This season several additional star players have been added to the veteran squad. The Factors last season won 30 out of 35 games played, a very enviable record.

The following girls comprise the veterans on the Factor team that has done a lot to advertise New Castle, as they travel to all parts of western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio, even to New York state and West Virginia. Kate Smith, Jerry Gail, Jean Cerutti, Jenny Augustine, Ann Hordig, Marian Reynolds, and Mary Mescall Wallace.

The new girls this year will be—Grace Cooper of Niles, Ohio, formerly a member of the Susie Sponseller girls national championship team, also Ara Feldkamp of Steubenville, who played a part of last year with the Factors, and Dora Naples of the South Side, one of the most outstanding girl athletes in New Castle, also another new girl on the squad will be Virginia Ryczniak formerly of Shenango high.

FINALLY GOT IT
COLLEGE STATION—At long last the Texas Aggie football team has a portable water wagon for use at its games. It was used for the first time at the Texas Aggie-Texas Longhorn football game Thursday Nov. 27.

GOPHERS VERSATILE
MINNEAPOLIS—Minnesota's grid squad was loaded with talent. Bob Sweiger, backfielder, is a first string catcher; Butch Levy, a guard, is intercollegiate wrestling champion while Bob Fifth, an end, is a star with the discs.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

What's new in sports today?

Contrary to reports, Youngstown East and Campbell Memorial will face New Castle high's "Hurricane" on the grid next season. Our "scoop peddler" says that Mt. Lebanon high, which battled Johnstown for the W.P.I.A.L. Class AA football garland, may be a new opponent on the 1942 schedule.

The Section 20 Class B W.P.I.A.L. floor schedule has reached the desk County quints start their flag chase on January 6. Shenango will play at Princeton (new loop member); New Wilmington goes against Wampum at Ellwood City; East Brook travels to Union Township and Bessemer flirts at Mt. Jackson. Wampum bagged the toga last season.

Westminster's veteran hoop combo faces the Farrell Athletic Club quint in a pre-season number on Friday night in the Farrell Junior high gym. The Titans' season opens on Saturday, December 13, in Pittsburgh, pairing the 1940-41 Pennsylvania champion against Max Hannum's Carnegie Tech aggregation.

Globe Trotters Here Tonight

Champions Will Play St. Vitus At Arena Floor, Ellwood-Gersons In Preliminary

FIRST BIG GAME OF YEAR HERE

Tonight is the night and the Arena on Grove street is the place, where hundreds of basketball lovers will get the biggest thrill of their lives when they witness the clever antics and ball handling of the world famous Harlem Globe Trotters colored team in action with the St. Vitus team of the New Castle church league. The main game will start about 9 o'clock.

The preliminary game at 7:45 o'clock has all the earmarks of a preview of the finals in the City-County basketball tourney bringing together the strong newly organized Aetna Standard Five of Ellwood City playing the reorganized Gerson Big Five of New Castle. Both are powerful teams and will be in the running for championship honors this year.

Gersons Are Strong
The Gerson lineup reads like a Who's Who in basketball, dotted with stars galore in—Bob and Francis Pitzer of Shenango high fame, Jimmy Dart and Eddie Nae has former Slippery Rock college stars Ray Fredericks former Westminster star, Dave "Bonehead" Greer, Al Christopher and Tom O'Neil former New Castle high stars, Joe Johnston also former New Castle high star, Jack Hanna of Shenango high fame, and John McGary star of the New Castle church league. The Gerson team will all be near or over the six-foot mark. At the helm of the team will be Fred McLure of the Ben Franklin faculty, who coached the Scorpions to the Class B title last year in the city-county tourney. Walter Perch is again the business manager of the Gersons.

The Aetna Standard team is made up of several former Shelby Social stars such as—Robuck, Stasick, Cole, Grayano, Tomel, Barnes and others and will come here with the express purpose of taking the measure of the Gerson team. This should be a humdinger of a warm up for the St. Vitus and Globe Trotters game.

First Appearance Here
Tonight the Globe Trotters will be here for the first time since they organized 14 years ago. The team over the 14-year span has won 2,022 games out of 2,168 games played and were the first team to establish fall training quarters at Slippery Rock, Wisconsin, where they drilled along with the famous Sheboygan Redskins.

All of the Globe Trotters are six feet and over and were the first team to introduce real showmanship to the basketball world. Last night at Pittsburgh the Globe Trotters defeated the Detroit Eagles the champions of the Auto City 40 to 31. Hudson Pressley and Price are the stars of the Trotters.

The St. Vitus team coached by Kane Morgan and with a long winning streak will have a galaxy of stars in the lineup that faces the Harlem boys, including such well known stars as—Rags and Nickie Gennock, Peety Zinger, Sammy Bullano, Mike and Joe Ross, Joe Chialfallo, Mike Covelli, Sammy Clazza and DeLillo.

Manager Ed Richardson of the Arena has gone to quite an expense to bring this stellar double attraction to the Arena court and has also made plans to have seats available for everybody who attends.

tioned in Fort Bragg, N. C., the ex-West Side Tiger and Elder A. C. baseball ace, says that he's confined to quarters due to an injured knee suffered while playing basketball.

Rote reports that one of his cage mates is "Bill" Glover, another localite, Charlie "Chuck" Perrotta, being a golfer, quite naurally occupies a spot along the sidelines rooting for the home town boys. Rote sends greetings to the folks back home.

Odd stuff and things—Colorful Walter Hagen, the golf whiz, estimated recently that he has walked about 100,000 miles during his career on the fairways... What pin fursures most in splits or railroads in bowling? It's that old No. 5... Wade Killefer, manager of the Indianapolis baseball club, has never had a contract with the club.

Since taking over the coaching post at Notre Dame, Frank Leahy, the coach of the year, has spent only four days with his wife and children... Kansas City, a New York Yankee farm, proved the easiest club to strike out in the American Association during the past season. K. C. whiffed on 667 occasions.

As Titan Sees Season

NEW WILMINGTON, Dec. 4.—This is the Westminster Titan winning football season as Jim "Bud" Wilson, Westminster varsity letterman from Canton, Ohio, sees it.

Wilson played "up and down" the line this year, from guard to end, after winning a freshman numeral last year at the center post.

After graduation, Wilson expects to become a commercial illustrator or cartoonist. He is regular staff cartoonist for Scrawl, campus literary publication.

Westminster ended the season with 5 wins to 3 defeats in spite of injuries to Ted Ossoff, end; Ed Hamilton, center and end; Joe Demoise, end; and Felix Demoise, half.

Titans To Play Long Schedule

Twenty-One Games For Season—To Play In Madison Square Garden

ALL LAST YEAR'S STARTERS RETURN

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Dec. 4.—With all of last year's starters back in the lineup, the Westminster Titans face their 1941-42 schedule with mixed feelings this year. In spite of an all-star veteran team, Coach Washabaugh faces one of the toughest schedules ever handed a group of Blue and White cagers.

Headlining the 21-game card are two games with Dukes of Duquesne, Waynesburg, and Geneva; and single-contests with Pitt, W. and J. Villanova, Brooklyn college, and the University of Toledo.

Only eight of the Titans' 21 games will be played on the Westminster home-court. Highlights of the season will be the Brooklyn Titans, Madison Square Garden, New York City, February 16, a holiday game with Duquesne in Pittsburgh, Dec. 27; and a New Year's eve game against the powerful University of Toledo Rockets who won 16 and lost only 3 games last year.

The schedule:

Giants Take Back Hank Leiber And Give Up Pitcher Bob Bowman And Cash

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)
JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 4.—In the first trade of significance at the annual minor league meetings, the New York Giants today regained possession of Outfielder Hank Leiber from the Chicago Cubs in exchange for Pitcher Bob Bowman and cash and with that probably indicated two important factors in their rebuilding plans under the management of Mel Ott.

In the first place, by reaching out and bringing back an outfielder they let go three years ago, the New York club tacitly admitted just how weak it has been and is for pennant competition. Secondly, this particular deal seemed to lead to the impression that Ott, appointed to succeed Billy Terry on Tuesday, will have a free hand in running the Giants. Ott wanted Leiber.

Deal Is Closed

To get him, he and Terry and Owner Horace Stoneham haggled with General Manager Jim Gallagher of the Cubs for about six hours, and finally the deal was announced shortly before 2 o'clock this morning. Both clubs also indicated immediately that they were through trading unless something exceptional shows up, but both, to the contrary, were understood to be in the market for more replacements, convinced as they are that they will have to build for the future to stop the champion Brooklyn Dodgers and the St. Louis Cardinals.

Leiber went to the Cubs in 1938 along with Catcher Gus Mancuso and Shortstop Dick Bartell in exchange for Catcher Hank O'Dea, Shortstop Billy Jurges and Outfielder Frank Demaree.

It isn't what the doctor says that encourages and satisfies patients, but the fact that he listened.

Mike Jacobs And Joe Louis
Make Bundle Of Money
During Year Of 1941

FIGHT MANAGERS
SWALLOW CIGARS

By PAT ROBINSON
(International News Service Writer)

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Mike Jacobs, the man with the musical molar, grossed more than $200,000 on his fight with Joe Louis. And Joe Louis, the lad with the musical fists, the makes the birdies sing, doesn't he?—was the nation's highest-paid athlete, with about $300,000 to show for his brain scrambling efforts, and the tax on that kind of green cabbage makes him worth more to Uncle Sam outside the army than he would be in it.

And speaking of cabbage, our fat friend Babe Ruth will get a bale for playing himself in the Lou Gehrig movie, after he takes off about 40 pounds, which is going to be an epic struggle, but anything for art is Babe's motto.

Telegat Is Tops

Stew Telegat, who can afford to spend more than Joe Louis can earn, is all alone at the peak as the world's outstanding polo player. The USPA having reduced Texaco's Cecil Smith's handicap rating to nine goals, leaving Telegat, the only 10-goal man in the world of polo.

And gorgeous Evelyn Chandler, the world's greatest acrobatic skater, is not quite as young as she appears, as her two grown sons could assure you.

Boxing writers are sure to name Joe Louis the fighter of the year, and Lou Nova the flop of the year. Mickey Owen, the Dodger catcher, made himself the goat of the year when he missed that third strike. And little Sarah Palfrey Cooke is the tennis gal of the year.

Big argument as to whether the biggest upset was Pitt's victory over Fordham, or Red Cochrane's victory over Fritz Zivic for the welterweight title. And that reminds me that the Broadway bookies are already quoting 7 to 5 on Fordham to take Missouri in the Sugar Bowl.

And Dr. Mal Stevens, whose NYU team was slaughtered by both Fordham and Missouri, will have a little bet riding on Fordham.

Return Match
George Abrams has been promised a return shot against Tony Zale for the middleweight title next March. George was a very sick boy after that last battle.

And that reminds me that the sickest men I ever saw at a fight were not fighters, but managers. Maurice Waxman and Al Weill, both of whom always have a half smoked cigar stuck in their faces. I saw Maurice swallow his cigar one night when Pete Mack hit Jackie Gordon on the chin, and I saw Al do the same stunt one night when his Sammy Noble was flattened.

Johnny Attell, who is staging a Steve Belloise-Phil Furr 10-rounder in Washington Dec. 10, says that after 12 years of ring warfare Furr is fighting better than ever, although the average batter is usually punch drunk in half that time.

RUSS PINS HOPE ON "TWIN LEFT" TO DEFEAT LES

George Chip was an exponent of the "delayed punch" Tom McMahon doted on a shift and Eddie Wegman employed a "corkscrew" to tell opponents. However, none of the local amateurs have mastered these blows but the "Shenango Flash" Russell Baxter is hoping that a twin left hook will retain him the middleweight championship of Lawrence county when he battles the "Cane Kid" Les Leasure, in The Arena, Wednesday night.

Everyone who has watched Baxter's left carve victories will agree he has a nice left jab and a fairly good right, when he backs his right with leverage. However "Pop Eye" Gibson, the hero of many Jolly bowl affairs believes that a twin left will retain the title for Baxter.

Baxter has been training this week during the morning and he has been noted to jab follow through with a right then hook his left to the stomach then immediately hook it again to the jaw. In plain words, "Russ wants to knock out the foundation then tumble over the building."

If both punches land flush he may win a K.O., but Les Leasure thinks that if Russ drags back his first left hook his right to the jaw (and that is his best punch) will beat Baxter's left and down will go Baxter.

Of course, all this is pre-flight stuff and they may forget all about the twin left and the right to the jaw and start flinging haymakers as soon as they enter the ring. There's hot rivalry between the local middleweights and each would love a Christmas present in the form of the county title.

Meanwhile Baby Face Leasure, despite his briefness in the amateur ring, a crafty student of hit and miss, will doll himself physically for an encounter with Frankie Cordy, a rugged Niles battler.

Swimming Team To Start Season

College Tank Team To Compete With Slippery Rock On Saturday

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Dec. 4.—The Westminster-Slippery Rock swimming meet Saturday initiates the district intercollegiate swimming card for 1941-42. Coach Joe Farris will take 15 Titan tankers to Slippery Rock.

The Blue and White team is stronger than last year with an all-varsity group. No lettermen were lost from last year's squad, which won three out of ten meets in 1940-41.

Titans in the Slippery Rock meet include Captain Warren Pollock, Turtlet Creek, sprints and relays; Jim Ludwig, Pittsburgh, sprints and relays; Charles Hend, Pittsburgh, 220 and 440; William Scheid, Philadelphia, and Chalmers Houston, Ben Avon, breast-stroke; Don Brooke, Erie; William Hill, Turtle Creek, and Robert Colborn, Connelville, backstroke.

Harry Brownson, Aliquippa, 440; George Zemb, Erie; James Copeland, Laurel, Md., and Ralph Donaldson, Beaver, fancy-diving, and Harold Stuntz, Edinboro, 220.

Pirates Sell Ray Mueller

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 4.—The Pittsburgh National League baseball club today announced the sale at Jacksonville, Fla., of Catcher Ray C. Mueller to the Sacramento club of the Pacific Coast League.

The Pirates purchased Mueller three years ago from the Boston Nationals. However, in the last two seasons, the backstop played in only three major league games. Pittsburgh's remaining catchers are Al Lopez, Bill Baker, Vinny Smith and Eddie Fernandez.

Trade Winds Blow

But for the trades, the major league officials could send one of their third-string office boys to the minor convention without portfolio and he could handle everything satisfactorily. There wouldn't be anything more to it than straightening out the situation on one farm or another, drawing up new working agreements and standing around looking important.

The trades and possibilities of trades is what brings them all here, and will bring them all to Chicago later on and to the meetings in the future wherever they may be.

It is an old saying that many a pennant has been won at these gabfests, when some club got that vital spark it needed in the person of some star from another team or even some castoff who starred all over again.

So they're here—
If you see a pair of large ears flapping loosely from behind one of the potted palms in the lobby of the hotel baseball headquarters, that would be Casey Stengel, manager and part owner of the Boston Braves.

A large gentleman with a great growth of eyebrows and a pleasant but strictly businesslike appearance would be Ed Barrow, the head man of the New York Yankees, who might be in the vicinity of a considerable cloud of cigar smoke and practically no conversation from a person who immediately could be identified as his manager, Joe McCarthy.

Durocher On Hand
A dapper fellow who seems to need a haircut while he dominates the gabfest with a direct, tough sort of a straight-to-the-point manner of speaking would be Leo Durocher, boss of the Brooklyn Bums.

Rogers Hourly, managing in the Texas League but somehow always apparently a little wistful to get back in the majors, could be picked out by the sheer idiosyncrasy of his not talking through clouds of smoke.

Frankie Frisch, who sooner or later will make a pennant-winner of the Pittsburgh Pirates with the power of his personality and savvy, may be taking it easy in seclusion behind a sofa, up a dark stairway, behind one of the inevitable plants that infest hotel lobbies or in his room, but he will be there somehow.

Branch Rickey, the boss man of the cards—who may not be with them more than another year because of his $50,000 contract, and Billy Southworth, his manager, will be snugly looking at the rest, convinced they have next year's pennant-winner or the makings thereof on their farms.

Boudreau Present
And around the premises will be a sprightly young man accompanied by a solemn older fellow. This would be Lou Boudreau, 24-year-old manager of the Cleveland Indians, and vice president Rosten Peckinpaugh who piloted the club last season.

They are here for one purpose and one alone—to get rid of their recalcitrants if possible and to go on from there to the American League pennant.

Aside from the major leaguers there are the Bush Leaguers from everywhere hoping to get some talent or to make a trade, with some of the confirmed bushers a little awed by the sight of the McCarthys and Hornsbys and the rest as viewed from close-up.

FAIR OR FOUL By LAWTON CARVER INS Sports Editor

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 4.—It's always the same—yet always different at the baseball meetings. The one that has brought everybody here is the annual mid-winter convention of the minor leagues. A week hence they will gather at Chicago for the major league sessions. Neither here nor at Chicago is there likely to be any official business of such magnitude as to drive the U. S. Japan or Russo-German situations off the front pages.

At Cincinnati two years ago they made some headlines at one of these meetings when the "break-up-the-Yankees" movement reached the point where they really tried to do it. They didn't break them up but they made a fine gesture toward stopping them by passing the famous rule preventing a pennant-winner in the American League from making trades within its own circuit. That rule has been rescinded.

Aside from that instance, when they decided to get the Yankees' recent meetings, major and minor have been rather grab, except for the extraneous maneuvering indignities thereto. The baseball trades are the important thing. Everybody gathers mainly to do their haggling for next season. That's the way it is here.

Trade Winds Blow
But for the trades, the major league officials could send one of their third-string office boys to the minor convention without portfolio and he could handle everything satisfactorily. ## Senior Play Packed With Varied Thrills

High School Group To Present
Mystery-Comedy Friday Night

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 4.—Friday evening at the Lincoln auditorium in Ellwood City the seniors will present a three-act mystery comedy packed with thrills, horrors, love, mystery, peanuts and national defense. The following is a brief outline of the play:

It is New Year's Eve. The Green-But house is deserted, supposedly. But first a flashlight beams and then goes out. A man disappears up the stairway. Then Claire and Bob stumble into the dark room on a treasure hunt.

Miss Greenwood has come out with her maid and chauffeur to escape the noisy celebrations in the city. Kate and Eddie have come on a ghost watch to get a story for the paper. Joe Howard goes and comes out of a hidden door which leads into the secret room. When Mr. Smith turns up carrying an apparently unconscious Paula, there is no doubt about it—something is going on here.

Mr. Hardman has always been a faithful lawver and friend, but when he starts creeping around with a gun and gets in a tangle with Joe, he looks a bit doubtful. Mr. Smith says he is a G-man, but Paula finds out he is something different. The secret room turns out to be a forbidden counterfeiting press is questionable and many important things are happening. Mrs. Wick is a housekeeper who comes off and on the stage carrying food and mystery through three acts. Hugh Nichols' success in the laboratory brings happiness to the entire cast.

The seniors simply refuse to tell you more now, because it's a good play and they don't want to spoil it for you when you see the play.

Baptists Enjoy Fellowship Event

Two Hundred Members Attend
Dinner And Program At Church

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 4.—Completely enjoyable was the fellowship dinner held last evening at the church by the First Baptist congregation.

Arranged by the trustees in celebration of the third anniversary of the church after the remodeling, the affair was attended by two hundred members. A most delicious baked ham dinner was enjoyed and served under the direction of Mrs. Mary McDanel and a committee of various class representatives. The table decorations were lovely.

Seated by families, the group first enjoyed viewing the redecorated dining room and the new lighting system. Robert Jones did a fine job in leading group singing with Mrs. Edward Hedberg as accompanist.

John D. Sartwell, Sunday school superintendent, was an excellent choice as toastmaster presenting the various program features in a delightful manner.

The first feature was a report of the board of trustees by the chairman, David J. Jones, Jr. He reported that the church is in splendid financial condition and was clear of indebtedness save four hundred dollars following the remodeling after the fire three years ago. Members were also pleased to learn that $1225 had been collected for the Baptist Orphanage in Pittsburgh. The goal for the Orphanage fund was $1000. He announced that the Sunday school rooms will be painted in the near future.

An amusing reading followed by Mrs. Robert Menafier after which Howell Williams mystified the group with a very clever group of magical acts.

"To see ourselves as others see us" was the introduction for the program high-light, motion pictures taken of the various church groups over a period of several months and shown by Mrs. John H. Hough.

The program closed with a fitting object lesson on fellowship by the pastor, Rev. Bernie G. Osterhouse after which the group sang "Blest Be The Tie That Binds." It was agreed to make the celebration an annual event.

The score at half-time was 18 to 4 with Monaca leading. Ottaviani with 12 points and Stasick with 8 led the Ellwood scorers. Share and Cole did a fine job at stopping the Monaca offense.
